Alderman Flynn moved that the resolution be Alderman Morgan in a short speech, paying a handsome tribute to the dead statesman.
"Hamilton Fish," he said, "was descended from a long line of valiant and patriotic ancestors, who gave freely of their money and services during the earlier and troublous days of the country, and the same may be said of Secretary Fish himself, in served the people of the Nation at a period of life when most men seek rest from the labors of political life. His most prominent service to his country was unquestionably when he took up the Alabama question, and his masterly diplomatic policy alone averted war with England, secured a Geneva Tribunal of Arbitration. Born in this city, Hamilton Fish gave it his first public service in Congress, and now, though dead he leaves behind him a reputation as a statesman of integrity, probity and honor which it well behoove us to commemorate in this fitting manner."

After the adoption of the resolutions, President McClellan appointed Aldermen Morgan, Provin, Flynn, Murphy, Wund, Prague and S. W. Smith the committee to attend the funeral.

HIS RECORD AS SECRETARY OF STATE.

INTERESTING REMINISCENCES BY GENERAL HORACE PORTER OF AN IMPORTANT

General Horace Porter, when asked yesterday by a Tribune reporter to speak of the character and career of Hamilton Fish, said: "The end of the eventful career of the Hon. Hamilton Fish recalls many incidents which occurred during the Administration of General Gran at which time I was brought into very close relations with Governor Fish, both personally and officially. He entered the Cabinet of General Grant on after his first inauguration, and was the only the entire length of the two Administrations. The day on which General Grant was firs, inaugurated I transferred my office from the headquarters of the Army to the White House in order to act as private secretary to the President. I went with him to the Executive Marielon immediately after the inauguration ceremonies. As soon as we had reached the Cabinet room he drew from the inside packet of his coat a number of visiting cards upon which he had written the names of persons whom he intended to make members of his Cabinet. From these cards I prepared a message to the Senate nominating the seven members of the Cabinet. The first name was that of the Hon. E. B. Washburne for Secretary of State. The President stated in handing me the card with this name upon it that he had had a talk with Mr. Washburne a short time before, and that it was arranged to send him upon a foreign mission. He had found, howhe added, that it would be very gratifying to Mr. Washburne to be named in the mean time for the first position in the Cabinet, and as hi long training in public life had well fitted him for the position, and as it was desirable to appoint a Cabinet officer from the President's own State, Illinois, he had decided to send Mr. Washburne's name to the Senate as Secretary of State, and afterward appoint him to a foreign mission and nominate the Hon. Hamilton Fish for the permament position. A few days after Governor Fish was written to upon the subject. He replied, expressing the high appreciation of the honor tendered him, but giving many reasons why he could not assume the labors of the office. As the President had already had to make one change in his

our history, viewed from a diplomatic standpoint. As the complexion of the Administration politically had completely changed from that of its predecessor, it followed naturally that a change became necessary in the prominent foreign missions and consulships, and Governor Fish's high sense of duty and large acquaintance with public men admirably fitted him for giving the President valuable assistance in selecting creditable appointees the gentlemen he had selected, and he sent an officer of his personal staff to Governor Fish to urge him to accept the place, even if he could not consent to perform the duties throughout the entire period of the Administration. The Governor withdrew his objections, and fortunately for the Administration and for the country, he soon after ac-cepted the place. It was a clear case of the of-fice seeking the man and not the man the office. From the very day he entered upon his duties ence of Governor Fish form a conspicuous part of the most creditable chapter in the civil history of our country.

"Besides this, he gave brilliancy to the Administration by his accomplishments and the generous manner in which he entertained. His house in 1-st, was then one of the best equipped residences for entertaining in the city of Washington. The rent which he paid for the house was just equal to his salary. The means required for the elaborate entertainments he gave came from his own private fortune.

"As Governor Fish had not been in public life since 1857, it was thought when he was first appointed that he would not be fully abreast with the times, but it was soon formd that no one could have been selected for the place better equipped for its duties. He had had a useful training in the Legislature of his State, as Governor of his State, as a member of Congress and United States Senator. His legal acquirements added also to his usefulness in the place. He had travelled abroad, he and his accomplished wife both spoke French, which was then even more than now the general language of diplomacy and polite society. Mrs. Fish adorned the place she held more than any woman of her time. She was a "grand dame" in the highest sense of the term, and was the perfection of intelligence, amiability and courtesy. The charm of their entertainments made their house most attractive, not only to their own countrymen, but for the diplomatic representatives of all the great Powers of the world.

"Governor Fish was by nature so modest and unassuming that it gave him at times an air of diffuence. While he expressed himself well and made an excellent presiding officer in the charitable organizations and patriotic societies in which he always held high office, he had a great distaste for public speaking, and never consented to say more than half a dozen sentences when called upon to speak at public entertainments. He was as devoid of ambition as an ap public officer with whom I have ever come in contact. If he had been more of

The story told by the policeman is to the effect that he attempted to sisted arrest, took the policeman's club away and gave him several severe blows with it. Dillon then drew his revolver and fired a shot over Doran's head as a warning. Doran then drew a revolver, the policeman says, but before he could use it Dillon lowered his arm and shot at his prisoner, the bullet taking effect in the inner part of the right leg, near the groin. Doran was taken to the station-house and searched, but no revolver was found in his possession. He was then taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, and the physicians there say his con lition is critical. Dillon is confined at the stationhouse pending the result of Doran's injuries.

WAS THIS CHILD ILL TREATED!

A MOTHER'S STORY OF CRUELTY ON RANDALL'S ISLAND.

Jacob Roberson lives at No. 105 Redford-st., in the basement, with his wife and seven children. He is a hard-working man, but has been out of employment for some time, and, following the advice of friends and the doctors of several medical institutions, he sent one of his children, a boy about four years old, named Artbur, to Randall's Island. A Tribune reporter saw Mrs. Roberson last night at her home. She said that her son, from the effects of spinal meningitis, had become an idiot, and as she had two younger children and her husband was out of work, she had followed what she thought was good advice and had taken Arthur, on July 15, to Bandall's Island. She and her husband, she said, visited the island, and oticing the treatment which her own child and others received, soon decided to take him away, which they did on August 23. Mrs. Roberson says that her child, while on the island, was frequently tied to a chair and placed in the broiling sun until he became almost black. UNION FERRY PERCENTAGES REDUCED.

The Sinking Fund Commissioners took up the application of the Union Ferry Company yesterday, and, as foreshadowed by The Tribune, resolved to reduce the percentage paid the city for the franchises from 12% to 7% per cent on the gross receipts of the five ferries. The details of the sale receipts of the five ferries. The details of the sale were referred to the Controller, who will fix the day and advertise it. The Company, it is expected, will bid in the leases with the stipulation that the one-cent commission hours from 5 to 7 o'clock, morning and evening, will be retained. If there should be any purchaser except the company he must take the company's property at the appraised valuation of $2.29.40!, which is considered to be $729.000 over and above its real value. The lease has ten years to run from May I, 1891. The Corporation Counsel gave notice that the injunction restraining the sale of the Staten Island Ferry franchise has been withdrawn. The Controller will now proceed with the sale.

The Dock Department's modest request for $3.000.000 to extend its dock system was referred to the Controller.

IS THE MACHINE AFRAID?

STRANGE RUMORS ABOUT MAYNARD.

IT IS SAID THAT HE WILL DECLINE THE NOMI-

NATION AFTER IT IS MADE. If there is any truth in rumors which have been circulating for a day or two, the Democratic ma-chine leaders have become frightened at the many evidences of popular opposition to Isaac H. Maynard for Judge of the Court of Appeals. "Vin dication" is what Maynard wants, and some of his friends are representing, it is said, that he will be satisfied with a bare nomination by the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga next month. This, according to the reports, which are believed to be authentic, is to be made by acclamation, and immediately thereafter a letter from Maynard will presented and read to the convention thanking the representatives of the Democracy of the State for this "unsought evidence of their confidence" in the face of "vituperation and slander," and declining to accept on the ground that he is abundantly satisfied with such a "vindication" at the hands of his fellow-citizens.

A year ago Maynard wrote a similar letter to Edward Murphy, jr., chairman of the Democratic State Committee, declining the nomination for the vacancy on the Court of Appeals bench caused by vacancy on the Court of Appeals bench caused by Chief Judge Ruger's death, and thanking his friends for their kindness in offering to support him. At that time Maynard was looking forward to the present year for the substantial remuneration which Hill and the other conspirators promised him when he assisted them to rob the electors in three Senate districts of their lawfully elected representatives. Few Democrats seen last evening believed that Maynard would be satisfied with the kind of "vindication" to be extracted from a nomination to be declined.

that Maymard would be satisfied with the kind of "vindication" to be extracted from a nomination to be declined.

If there is any truth in this report it was believed to spring from a dread of disaster on the part of Hill, Sheehan and other prominent members of the State "combine."

"Maynard's name on the Democratic ticket this fall means a loss of at least 5,000 Democratic votes in the State." said a well-known politician of this city yesterday who at one time represented a Democratic constituency in the State Senate. This opinion is not confined to the one who expressed it. A similar belief is known to prevail among Democrats of intelligence in all parts of the State. "Messrs, Hill and Sheehan could not find a worse year for paying off their indebtedness to Maynard," remarked a careful observer of popular feeling, after hearing the report alluded to, "They cannot do a better thing than to get him to wait for his pay until the voters forget who stole the Dutchess County returns. Perhaps they begin to realize that Maynard may puil down the whole ticket with him."

Farrari was sitting on an ice-cream tub in the basement, when he held up his hand over his head and took hold of the brass attachment of an incandescent light. He was unable to release his hand, and he called to a fellow-workman: "Hold me up! Hold me up!" Before the man could reach Farrari the latter dropped his hands and fell to the floor unconscious, dying before a doctor could reach him. A lineman examined the light and found that the connection was out of order and that there was a leakage. SUICIDE FOLLOWED BIGAMY.

A LONG ISLAND WOMAN, AFTER DESERTING HER HUSBAND AND CHILD, KILLS HER-SELF IN A CHICAGO HOTEL.

Chicago, Sept. 8.-Guests in the Gault House were aroused a few minutes after 2 o'clock this morning by a shot that was fired in room 24, to which at 8 o'clock last evening had been assigned a couple who registered as T. Hastings and wife, New-York. The door was forced open and the woman was found unconscious in bed. In her left side was a bullet wound, and near her was a revolver. She was alone, and all the circumstances surrounding the case point to suicide.

After registering at the hotel the woman was shown to her room, and the man, who registered as her husband, left at once, saying he would return in a short time. He did not come back, however. A physician was called, and he made efforts to restore the woman to consciousness, but failed, and at 3 o'clock this morning she was removed to the County Hospital, where she died a few hours afterward. Papers found in the room show that the woman's name was not Hastings, but that she was Mrs. Berthold Popper.

In the woman's trunk was a marriage certificate showing that on September 6, 1833, Cornelius Flynn, Alderman of the First District of New-York, had married Lelia A. Hallock, of New-York, and Berthold Popper, of Moriches, Long Island. Among the woman's effects was found a bankbook issued by the Merchants' National Bank of New-York, showing a credit balance of $824.98. The woman was about thirty years old, and stylishly dressed, as her husband, left at once, saying he would re-

Lelin A. Hallock was the wife of Charles H.

Lelia A. Hallock was the wife of Charles II. Hallock, a prosperous merchant of Moriches, L. I. They were married in October, 1889. She was the daughter of Dr. Charles Roberts, of Mastic, L. I. Not long ago Mrs. Hallock came into possession of $1,890.

Mrs. Hallock's husband and her father-in-law say that she left home on Saturday for the World's Fair. That, they say, was all she told them. She did not tell them when she would return. They say she met a Mr. Popper in New-York in January last, and became infatuated with him. She was in the habit of meeting him in New-York and Brooklyn and at different points on Long Island.

Mrs. Hallock was the mother of a little girl, now about two years of age. She did not take the child with her.

The records at the City Hall show that on September 6 Borthold Popper, who lived at the Ash-about two years of age. She did not take the child with her.

The records at the City Hall show that on September 6 Berthold Popper, who lived at the Ashiand House, this city, was married to Lelia A. Hallock, of Moriches, L. L. by Alderman Flynn. Richard Fitzgerald, the clerk in charge of the records, recollected the marriage. He said the groom was a tall, thin, swarthy-looking man, while the bride was a good-looking brunette, with an abundance of brown hair. Alderman Flynn recollected performing the marriage.

Mrs. Hallock was well known at the Ashiand House, and had registered there a number of times since last fall. Her last visit there was on September 6, and she went away late in the afternoon of that day.

THE WASHINGTON PARK BACES.

COASTMAN WINS THE 2:15 PACE-WILKIE KNOW Chicago, Sept. 8 (Special).-There was further improvement in the quality of the harness races at Washington Park to-day. Whirligig's mile in 2:18½ is one of the fastest paced by a two-year-old this season. When the big brown daughter of Wilkes went to the post to-day she had no record, never having won a heat. Sigma Chi, the favorite, was never dangerous in the race. There was nothing it is a constant. favorite, was never dangerous in the race. There was nothing like a contest in the 2:19 class, trotting, Miss Lida, 2:14½, outclassing the others and winning at case. Jennie K., the favorite, disclosed high form in the 2:28 class race, and won easily. Every heat of the 2:15 class jacing race drew cheers from 5,000 spectators, so close and exciting were the finishes. Coastman's victory may be credited to his undying gameness more than to his speed. Attantic King and Wilkie Knox were easy marks for the foot son of Bourbon Wilkes siter they had gone too heats. Hanche Louise and W. W. P. were both dangerous until ruled out, bothe's poor drive with the latter alone costing him the third neat. Wilkie Knox lowered his record from 2:17-75 to 2:10½, and Atlantic King's record fell from 2:12 to 2:11. Summaries: Sibri WHEEL PURSE, $1,000—TWO-YEAR-OLDS, 2:46
